LifeWorks' Success with Cancer Patients

LifeWorks

Wellness Center

LifeWorks Wellness Center is experiencing considerable success in treating cancer patients with Insulin Potentiation Therapy (IPT), introduced by the clinic in May 2012, and resulting in a number of positive results.

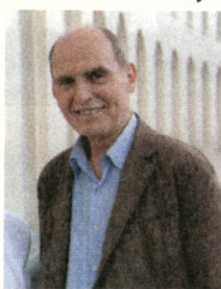

Mike was diagnosed with stage IV prostate cancer and given a 36 percent chance of survival. When diagnosed, his PSA (the marker per blood test that shows the cancer) was at 291. Normal is between 1 and 4, so he was scared! In a matter of months his PSA went from 291 down to under 1.

A year ago, Peg was diagnosed with stage 4 breast cancer, and today she is healthy, active and cancer-free. Dr. Stewart is now 11 months out from diagnosis of stage 4 lung cancer, and hasn't felt better.

LifeWorks co-founder and medical director, Dr. David Minkoff, explains, "Most of our patients have late stage disease and have been told there was nothing more that could be done. Each was searching for something that might give them hope for a longer future. At LifeWorks we have been able to provide that."

LifeWorks is located at 301 Turner Street, Clearwater. For those interested in learning more about IPT or any of the other protocols offered, call 727-466-6789 or visit LifeWorksWellnessCenter.com. See ad page 2.

American School of Natural Health Opens in Tampa

The American School of Natural Health (ASNH) recently opened its first school in Tampa. The school provides natural health education based upon the European approach to natural medicine. "Our goal is to offer unique, comprehensive and holistic programs in natural health, and train competent, safe and passionate professionals," states Hermann Keppler, Naturopath and founder of ASNH. "Our programs have been carefully designed to incorporate scientific understanding of the human body with traditional, natural methods of healthcare."

ASNH Nutrition and Herbal Consultant courses focus on: the healing power of nature; prevention is preferable to cure; the whole person is taken into consideration—not just a symptom.

ASNH also believes that real knowledge comes from practice. All courses have been designed to include both informative lectures and practice sessions. This provides students with a unique opportunity to begin applying their newfound knowledge immediately, helping to cement their learning and to encourage application in a real-life, practical situation.

ASNH can be contacted at 813-445-4202, AmericanSchoolofNaturalHealth.com, and Facebook.com/AmericanSchoolofNaturalHealth.
